NIKOLETTA VENTOURA

POSTGRADUATE STUDENT IN
COMPUTATIONAL LINGUISTICS,
RESEARCH ASSOCIATE

INSTITUTE FOR LANGUAGE AND SPEECH
PROCESSING, ATHENA RESEARCH CENTER

Nikoletta Ventoura is an undergraduate student of Linguistics, in the Department of Philology of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. As a scholar at the Institute for Language and Speech Processing of Athena Research Center, she contributes to the development of the dialogues and the linguistic material of the voice assistant for the delivery of language therapy exercises. She has attended various academic courses on Linguistics, including Computational Linguistics, Neurolinguistics and Psycholinguistics. Her research interests include Conversation Design and Natural Language Processing.